

A MOORNING DITI VPON THE DECEAS OF THE EARL OF ARUNDELL
 Dying HENRY EARL OF ARUNDELL, The auncient & Primer Counte of England, and right honozabl Baron Mautrauers & Clun one of our most gracions Queen ELIZABETHS Maicste ex most honorabl priuy Counsell, and of the right nobl Order of the Garter the elocu Knight: that departed in the Lord at his Place by Tower hill ne London, on Thursday Saint Matthez day the latter xxiii. of February in the xxii. yeer of her highnes most prosperous Reine, 1579.

Arise & complaints that ruful moornings may purpozt,
 Proceeding from a minde with woes opprest:
 A heauy hart dooun sunk within the brest,
 A damped countenaunce deuoid of all comfort,
 May best be seem the state of woful wight:
 And so may sorroz smart, vs rightfully compell
 With sighs profound be wail in careful plight,
 The late deceas of him whos honoz did excell,
HENRI that nobl Dying the EARL OF ARUNDELL.

Born & allped in Line long & Heroicall,
 Coomly in toozm of featurez & personage,
 Watched in by & equall marriage,
 Parent to one woorthy Lord & Ladyz twoo, Withall:
 For the rare bloomz of tru Nobilitie
 That first oout budded in his tender spring,
 The Earl his father yet aliue, & hee
 But Lord Mautrauers: Our late most famoous King
 Of Callis too him gaue the trust & goouerning.

The weighty charge whearof when he had vnderfong,
 He ransabld the Orderz old & nu,
 The good he held in execution du,
 The bad he brake, and ay by Justis righted wrong:
 With the fine French he compied in such soze
 As for his blowes great & Bolletyz agen,
 For fame to Dying & latery to the fozt,
 Both far & neer it was pronounced of all men,
 That Callis neuer had like Capitain as then.

Our King him made vpon this fine peers nobl say,
 At Bullen lerge by Warthall of his host:
 Wheras his peinz his daungerz with the most,
 His valiauns by hart & hand was prompt all way.
 And though a molehill to a mouunt be small,
 For certein truth yet this the wyter brings to minde,
 Whoo serued him thear at thez most actions all:
 And for the grace enteer that euer he did finde,
 May most deploze his death, but honoz all his kinde.

The Dying benign anon soon as the tooun he wan,
 For seruiz by doon by this nobl Peer,
 Chaz him too be one of his Coounsell neer,
 Lord Chamberlain also: which honoz after than King Edward gaue him: but Queen Mary made,
 Him President of Coounsell and Lord Stuard too be:
 Of our Queen eak that dignitee he hade.
 So as a thing it is right eident to se,
 In how great grace With all his Soouerainz was he.

The higher karged ship, and deeper it dooth draw,
 The daunger moze of storm of rok & sand,
 And blazs may bio that no state can withstand.
 At anker hold of fortitude when roze a flaw,
 He lay, with honoz till he cam to port,
 And as he thought none praised vertu as they ow,
 Onles their deedz tru vertu did reaport,
 He surely for his part, commended vertu so,
 As was his Embleam, LAYS VIRTUTIS ACTIO.

Bethink we eak how well he disposed thingz eachon,
 What tender woordz our Queen vntoo him sent:
 Wherat his hart did earn, his eiz silent,
 Keizd by his febl spyte, that then by him anon
 Intoo the Lords handz recommended is,
 In fame & in Succession sines heer be lueth ay,
 In Soul also too euerlasting blis
 Let vs by solas suppl our sorroz as we may,
 And hope in Childe to haue a ioyful meeting day,

For woorthy pleazur ellz: his Hoys & Armour sitch,
 His skil profound in both, his solem Queer
 By voiz & Instruments so sweet to heer,
 His Jewels, Antiquiteez, so many rare & rich,
 His Tablz, Cloks, & his symmetricall
 Billdingz, so lumptruoously adooound in euer part:
 For eend, his exquisit appointments all
 So excellent for cost, for by deuilez art,
 As might be signz cert ain of his so nobl hart.

For seruiz then, for honoz, or for his Dinces pleasure,
 How mooch toyd he thear too be liberrall:
 Of hart & neer toward the Noblz all,
 Too state of life he made his Birthdegree his measure,
 Motherz merit small, mooch he wold abauns
 Boounteous, benign, releuuing many greuous grones,
 In frent ship firm for ony chaunge or chaung.
 But ah for wo: dear death not moonabl by monez,
 All thez his shining lightz quite quenched bath at onet.

Obscuring orgulioously by dark & deadly blast,
 The lust of Jewell, the moze inestimabl,
 As is the loss so far irreperabl:
 In Earl, a Peer, a Dying, the only & the last
 Of that lo by FITZ ALLENZ name & blood,
 But why so waip & wemoze dooll thooou de clare
 Thez greidz of greuez: moze mer wear for thy mood
 Sum Opium for sleep of ellz whyle Nemphare,
 A looup of Lesbes lake toz to lozt thy care.

But noow, as wants a cheef one amoong the States by,
 So Nobl youth, & all of gentl hart:
 The Heraldz sage, the wise & leard in Art,
 This forlozn skath alas be wail may rufully
 And thooou infault day, dismoll, bisextill,
 Not halt by Charles birth & coronation light
 So good, as too the Earl of Flaunders ill
 And too French fr auncis eak, & cruell in thy spight
 No woorth the tunc that noow so soon p camd too light.

But sing that, heauy spyte dooth freat the minde to nought,
 Dyez by the bones & gallz the hart so soze,
 Healps not the caie (God wor) a whit the moze,
 By wisdom then be think we, heer in as we ought,
 First p this Peer (how euer wear the case)
 With looue of all Estatz in hartz sincere enrolld,
 In honoz pure did run his nobl case,
 Then saw his Childerz Chidzen (a crooun to his peers old
 As Graudlire to their gloze, eak him they did behold.

Whoo wear so vertuous all of minde & inclination
 As God took them, the sooner to be bles:
 Yet heer left one to coounterball the rest,
 Of whos encreasing honoz such is the expectation
 That in Abirall state & Dignitee
 As he succedez & luckily enioyz the same,
 So hope is that through Gods benignitee:
 By him shall glister long in honoz & in fame,
 The bright shine of p magnific ARUNDELLI name.
